yes

each member of a lynch mob
is culpable

— for acting

"normally" for a human in that situation — not what is best

(as one is considering

Confessing is not an excuse for murder

not a justification

could be avoided,
even at cost to
oneself

(fatal?)

(Must a man
be sentenced/punished for not giving his own life
to avert the (unhappy) death of an innocent?)

Moral ≠ legal

What is not illegal
may not be justified

What is ^{even, obligated} justified may not be legal (in other ~~most~~ circumstances or in other eyes)
legal (or justified)
